

Healthcare

When you're running a busy practice, working on budgets and cash flow projections isn't usually at the top of your "to-do" list.

Unfortunately, it's a fact that physicians who pay attention to their break-even levels, monitor fee schedules, and analyze their financial performance on a regular basis are more profitable - and less stressed.

Our partners have worked with hundreds of healthcare practices. We know the language of insurers and are experienced at negotiating better deals with new associates, hospitals, and even equipment suppliers. We'll help you get a handle on all the niggling details that can cut straight into your profits, and work with you to develop a blueprint for running your practice more effectively.
