

Staffing

A resource you can count on to help your business grow.

Running a staffing or executive search firm takes entrepreneurial zeal, a gift for motivating and retaining key personnel, and a strong will. Your industry gets hit first - and hard - whenever there's a downturn in the economy.

With many years of experience advising personnel firms - and numerous clients in this industry - we understand the common financial challenges that business owners face. Through careful examinations of business structures, costs, and tax strategies, our professionals have often been able to help organizations save thousands of dollars annually and reach new levels of financial success. At Citrin Cooperman, you'll always have immediate access to experienced professionals who can answer your questions. That's our promise.

Citrin Cooperman publishes a widely read survey that tracks growth, planning, and challenges/opportunities in the staffing industry. The survey provides us with unique insight into the issues affecting you - and gives us the data we need to put you on the right track. To view the results of the 2010 survey, "Sowing the Seeds of Growth," please visit this link.
