"Planning is the key to success. I help clients decide what works best for them. This is an integral part of their achievements and mine."

Matthew J. Bonney is a tax partner with over 25 years of experience focusing on all facets of his clients' business and tax needs. He specializes in working with clients in the real estate sector, including owners/operators, developers, investors, private real estate funds, and REITS. He also advises law firms and a range of clients in the music, manufacturing, technology, and restaurant industries, as well as high net worth individuals.

EXPERIENCE

For his real estate clients, Matt provides a deep expertise in deal planning, structuring, and reviewing, helping clients to acquire, manage, and sell properties while limiting tax risks. He has a wide breadth of knowledge and experience in federal, state, and local tax credits, as well as managing investor relationships, analyzing internal controls, and assisting with financing opportunities.

As a tax specialist, Matt also provides a range of general tax compliance and reporting services, including representing clients before government taxing authorities.

PRESENTATIONS & PUBLICATIONS

Matt is often quoted as an expert on tax-related matters in publications such as The Real Deal, Commercial Observer, and Real Estate Weekly. He is also a regular speaker for the firm's internal education programs.
